

German Sole at St Edmund Hall

For students starting in Michaelmas Term 2025

My name is Dr Alex Lloyd, and I am Fellow by Special Election in German at St Edmund Hall and Lecturer in German at Magdalen College and University College. I will be your college tutor. My role is to teach you, organise your studies, and provide a source of support. As well as teaching, I research and write about modern German literature and culture.

This document introduces the German course at Oxford and contains important information about your studies and how you can best prepare before your first term begins. All post-A-level Germanists study the same course in the first year. When you begin your studies, you will also have access to the Faculty Handbook which provides further information.

If you have any questions before you arrive in Oxford, do please get in touch with me by email: alexandra.lloyd@seh.ox.ac.uk. It is good practice to address academics by their title (e.g. Dear Dr Brown). Most will then invite you to address them by their first name.

Preparation for your Studies

You should be sure to have your own copies of the following when you begin your studies:

- The four plays for study in Michaelmas Term (by Wedekind, Brecht, Bernhard, Loher)
- The three prose texts and the film (by Fontane, Kafka, Jelinek, Akin)
- The four films for Paper XI
- Hartmann von Aue, Gregorius for Paper XII
- The four texts for Paper XIII
- Deutsche Gedichte: 1500 Gedichte von den Anfängen bis zur Gegenwart
- Martin Durrell, Hammer's German Grammar and Usage (7th edition; Routledge)
- Martin Durrell, Katrin Kohl, Claudia Kaiser, Practising German Grammar (4th edition; Routledge)
- Collins German Dictionary (Complete and Unabridged). Current edition.

To make the most of your first term at Oxford you should be sure to have completed the following tasks before you arrive in October:

1. Read the four plays. 'Reading' means reading critically: look up new words and phrases, and get a sense not only of the plot, but also the dramatic techniques used. Don't worry if you haven't studied literature or film at school — use this time to really get to know the primary texts (think not only about what happens, but also how that is portrayed). Be curious about the way these works are written/put together. For short introductions to the authors and/or texts, I recommend www.germanlit.org. This website is run and written by lecturers.
2. If there are areas of grammar you know you struggle with, spend some time working on these. For example, if you often make mistakes in word order, have a look at the relevant section in your grammar book and practise the exercises. There are plenty of online resources.
3. Complete the translation exercises below and submit them by Friday 0th Week 5pm.

Teaching

Your teaching during the first year at Oxford year will be arranged as follows:

Michaelmas Term (October-December):	Weeks 1-8: tutorials, lectures, seminars
Hilary Term (January-March):	Weeks 1-8: tutorials, lectures, seminars
Trinity Term (April-June):	Weeks 1-6: tutorials, lectures, seminars Week 7: revision Weeks 8-9: exams

The time you spend on your studies at Oxford will be divided between attending classes and lectures and working independently on reading and preparing written work to be marked by your tutors and discussed in tutorials.

Your lectures, seminars, classes, and tutorials will take place in a few different places: in college, at the Taylor Institution, at 47 Wellington Square, and at the Schwarzmann Centre. Most literature tutorials and translation classes will be in college with me in the first year. You will have a college Lektor*in for speaking and essay-writing classes and there are central grammar classes in the first year.

In Michaelmas Term the pattern of teaching for German in an average week will look roughly like this:

- One lecture/class in German for the Deutsche Gesellschaft und Kultur paper with one of the university's German native speakers
- One lecture in English on the plays (with a member of the Modern Languages Faculty)
- One college seminar on studying literature and/or poetry (with Dr Lloyd at St Edmund Hall)
- One tutorial on the plays (with Dr Lloyd at St Edmund Hall)
- One film seminar (with the German Sole students)
- One film lecture (with the Sole Language students)
- One reading class on Middle High German (with the German Sole students)
- One college translation class (with Dr Lloyd at St Edmund Hall)
- One college language class (with the college Lektor*in)
- One central grammar class with the University Language Instructor.

That means you will generally have one or two German classes per day. You will have around three written assignments for German each week, including language work, translation, and essays, commentaries, or presentations on literature/film.

The Preliminary Course

The first year of the German course is designed to consolidate and improve your language skills while exploring issues relating to German society (in the past and present) and developing an appreciation of German language and literature.

You may not have studied literature or translation in your language courses at school. Don't worry about this: the purpose of the first year is to train you in these skills. What matters is that you should enjoy reading and want to acquire the tools needed in studying language and literature.

The Preliminary Examination (known as 'Prelims') is taken at the end of the first year and consists of the following four papers:

Paper I: 'Deutsche Gesellschaft und Kultur seit 1890'

This paper will be taught in seminars with your college Lektor*in. It will involve speaking in German in class, reading and discussing text, and learning how to write a summary and essay in German.

Paper II: Translation

In college-based classes we will begin by thinking about translation theory (what is translation for? How do we do it? Are there untranslatable words? Is translation only about language?), and then practise translating between English and German using passages from literary texts. 'Prose Translation' means translating from English into German. 'Unseen Translation' means translating from German into English.

Paper III: Drama and Poetry – Essay and Commentary

You will study four prescribed dramas for this paper in Michaelmas Term:

Frank Wedekind, Frühlings Erwachen (1891)
[Stuttgart: Reclam, 1991. ISBN 3150079519]

Bertolt Brecht, Der gute Mensch von Sezuan (1943)
[Frankfurt am Main: Suhrkamp, 2024 (BasisBibliothek 25). ISBN: 978-3-518-18825-5]

Thomas Bernhard, Heldenplatz (1988)
[Frankfurt am Main: Suhrkamp, 2023 [1995]. ISBN:3518389742]

Dea Loher, Unschuld (2003)
[Stuttgart: Reclam Theater der Gegenwart, 2022. ISBN: 3150142059]

You will also study a selection of around thirty poems from the anthology Deutsche Gedichte 1500 Gedichte von den Anfängen bis zur Gegenwart, edited by Hans-Joachim Simm (Insel, 2009) ISBN 3458174400. The poems selected for study range from the medieval period to the present. We will begin the teaching proper for this in Hilary Term, but if you would like to get started with the reading for this, begin with the following poems:

Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, 'Erlkönig' (p. 430)
Friedrich Hölderlin, 'Hälfte des Lebens' (p. 536)
Wilhelm Müller, 'Der Lindenbaum' (p. 603)
Heinrich Heine, 'Sie saßen und tranken am Teetisch' (p. 668)
Eduard Mörike, 'Auf eine Lampe' (p. 706)
Hugo von Hofmannsthal, 'Ballade des äußeren Lebens' (p. 818)
Rilke, 'Archaischer Torso Apollos' (p. 835)
Else Lasker-Schüler, 'Ein alter Tibetteppich' (p. 853)
Bertolt Brecht, 'Schlechte Zeit für Lyrik' (p. 995)

Paper IV: Prose and Film – Essays

You will study three prose texts and a film in Hilary Term:

Theodor Fontane, Irrungen, Wirrungen (1888)
[Frankfurt am Main: Suhrkamp, 2006] [Suhrkamp BasisBibliothek 81]

Franz Kafka, Die Verwandlung (1912/1915)
[Stuttgart: Reclam XL, 2021. ISBN 3150161096]

Elfriede Jelinek, Die Liebhaberinnen (1975)
[Reinbek: Rowohlt Taschenbuch, current edition. ISBN 978-3499124679]

Fatih Akin (dir.), Aus dem Nichts (2017)
[Warner Home Video, 2018]

Paper XI: Introduction to German Film Studies

This paper is studied in Michaelmas Term of the first year and is taught in a weekly intercollegiate seminar for which written work is set. The course focuses in particular on the cinema of the Weimar Republic. The course will examine the development of film style and film technology in the 1920s and early 1930s, as well as putting the films in the wider context of German culture after the First World War. You will develop skills of commentary (on sequences of stills) and write essays relating to questions of film form and technique, and to thematic issues. You will also give at least one presentation as part of certification for this paper.

There are four set films and the recommended editions:

Asphalt (1929, dir. Joe May). [DVD: Eureka Masters of Cinema No. 7]

Menschen am Sonntag (1930, dir. Robert Siodmak). [DVD: BFI History of the Avantgarde editon]

Mädchen in Uniform (1931, dir. Leontine Sagan). [DVD: Zweitausendeins Edition, available from amazon.de]]

Viktor und Viktoria (1933, dir. Reinhold Schünzel) [DVD: Deutsche Filmklassiker]
Introductory reading:

David Bordwell, Kristin Thompson and Jeff Smith, Film Art: An Introduction (London, 12th edn. 2019) [or any edition from the 6th edn. onwards].

Sabine Hake, German National Cinema (London, 2nd edn. 2007).

To support your language-specific study of film, there will also be four general methodology lectures in Weeks 1-4 of Michaelmas Term devoted to four international films, presenting the basic concepts of film analysis, such as montage, story, self-reference, and spectatorship. The international films taught in this part are used simply as illustrations for the lectures and are not treated as set texts for examination purposes. In 2025-26, these will be: Potemkin (dir. Sergei Eisenstein, 1925); The 39 Steps (dir. Alfred Hitchcock, 1935); Blow-Up (dir. Michelangelo Antonioni, 1967); and Beau Travail (dir. Claire Denis, 1999).

Paper XII - Introduction to German Medieval Studies

For this paper you will need Hartmann von Aue, Gregorius [Reclam edition: Middle High German text with a facing page translation in modern German].

This paper starts in the second part of Michaelmas Term with a weekly reading class which continues into the first part of Hilary Term; it is then taught in 8 intercollegiate seminar sessions. It will focus on the close study of Gregorius by Hartmann von Aue. Students will be expected to read the set text in Middle High German and will be given an introduction to the language.

Paper XIII: Key Texts in German Thought

This paper is studied in Hilary and Trinity Terms of the first year. Tuition will take the form of intercollegiate seminars. The focus will be on close reading of four short texts. Translations may be consulted, but students are expected to develop a good grasp of the original works. For the examination, you will write ONE commentary on a passage taken from ONE of the texts studied, and TWO essays from a selection of questions on subjects which invite wider discussion of the questions raised by the texts and the relationship between them. You will also give at least one presentation in class for this paper.

The texts are:

Immanuel Kant, 'Idee zu einer allgemeinen Geschichte in weltbürgerlicher Absicht' in Kant, Was ist Aufklärung? (Hamburg: Meiner, 1999; NB not the Reclam volume with the same title)

Karl Marx, Friedrich Engels, Manifest der kommunistischen Partei (Stuttgart: Reclam, 2014) [Reclams Universal-Bibliothek 19266]

Friedrich Nietzsche, 'Zur Naturgeschichte der Moral', in Jenseits von Gut und Böse. Vorspiel zu einer Philosophie der Zukunft (Stuttgart: Reclam, 1988)

Sigmund Freud, Zeitgemäßes über Krieg und Tod. Warum Krieg? Der Briefwechsel mit Albert Einstein (Stuttgart: Reclam, 2022) [Reclams Universal-Bibliothek 14276]

Resources

For central grammar classes and your own reference, you will need:

Martin Durrell, Hammer's German Grammar and Usage (7th edition; Routledge)

Martin Durrell, Katrin Kohl, Claudia Kaiser, Practising German Grammar (4th edition; Routledge)

Collins German Dictionary (Complete and Unabridged). Current edition.

Speaking and Listening Classes

There is no formal oral examination in the first year, but to pass the Preliminary Examination in German you must attend and actively participate in no fewer than eight oral classes in German of at least one hour before the end of the fourth week of the Trinity Term of your first year. Candidates who fail to satisfy this requirement for the June examination shall have their mark for each of the two written language papers in German reduced by ten marks. This is an important requirement of the course that you should be aware of.

How Things Work at Oxford (Frequently Asked Questions)

Academic Work

What skills will I work on as part of my course?

There are four complementary skills involved in the study of Modern Languages: listening comprehension, speaking, close reading and writing. The Prelims course is designed to help you develop and hone these skills. The German course is tightly structured. By the end of the first year, you should have the skills you need for the second year and beyond, when you will have much more choice in the texts and topics you study.

How is reading literature going to help my language skills?

It expands your vocabulary, helps with fluency, and exposes you to new structures, phrases, registers, and ways of saying things in German. The best way to approach reading is to do it regularly. Make time for it and remember that it's directly related to your language skills – not a completely separate exercise.

How should I approach reading texts in German?

Get as much of the reading done as possible in the vacation before you start. Reading in a foreign language can be tiring for non-native speakers, especially if you haven't done it much before. It may be helpful to consider the following: keep a vocab book to keep track of new words and phrases; find out about the plot of the book before you start reading to make it easier to navigate; keep notes on each chapter of a book as you read and include a brief plot summary and note down any quotations that stick out as interesting or even strange (be sure to note page numbers if you do this: it will make life easier when you come to use the notes, and it is good scholarly practice; don't be despondent if it feels like a slog at first. Stick with it as it's an excellent way to improve your language skills and vocabulary and should ideally be, or become, an enjoyable task!

What is a tutorial?

A tutorial usually lasts for an hour, and we discuss a particular text, topic, or set of issues related to the primary material. You usually write an essay in preparation for a tutorial. You can find out more here: www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/guidance/skills/tutorials?wssl=1.

How do I do a translation homework?

Use a dictionary (consider using both an English-German one, but also a monolingual dictionary such as www.duden.de). Read the original text carefully and think about it with your 'literary hat' on before translating. Look at the language used, the structures, style, tone, and register. Check your final version carefully before you hand it in.

How do I complete an essay assignment?

There are lots of helpful guides online giving tips on how to do academic writing. Here's a rough outline of how you might approach researching and writing an essay for tutorials:

- Secondary reading and research
- Planning, paragraphing, thesis statement (a sentence beginning 'In this essay, I argue that...')
- Writing
- Editing
- Checking

You can find out more here: www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/guidance/skills?wssl=1.

What if I don't think I'm good at writing?

Part of the point of the first year at Oxford is to make you a better writer. Good writing takes practice and academic writing is a very particular skill. Take on board any feedback that tutors give you and ask if anything is unclear. It's all about practice.

What is secondary literature?

In Literary Studies, secondary literature refers to academic (sometimes referred to as 'scholarly') works that discuss, analyse, and interpret primary texts. Your tutors are all 'research active' – that means they do research and publish articles and books about literature, film, literary history etc.

Why do I need to read secondary literature?

If you write an essay on a work of literature, the chances are that someone else will have thought about it and written about it before you. In academia, we are always interested in what others have to say about texts. We may not always agree with them, though, and sometimes academics write about texts to 'set the record straight' or to show how the way they are interpreting the text makes more sense. You should read secondary literature at this stage to get a sense of how other academics have read the texts you are studying. But start to think about whether you agree with these people. Just because something was published, doesn't mean it is right or that it is well written!

How do I use secondary literature in my essay?

Tutors will often indicate which secondary literature you should make it a priority to read. At this stage, it's more valuable to spend time analysing the primary texts. Use secondary literature to get a sense of the context and others' arguments, but don't feel you have to read everything ever written!

What are footnotes and how should I use them?

Footnotes are a way of recording other academics' arguments and showing where the evidence you use (e.g. quotations from texts) come from. This is good and ethical academic practice. When you read secondary literature, have a look at the footnotes. Sometimes the author will suggest other avenues or works to pursue, or there may be ideas that weren't relevant enough for the main text but which the author still wants to convey.

How do I get access to secondary literature?

You should receive an introduction to SOLO (Oxford's online library catalogue) at your library induction. If you're ever in doubt as to how to access a book, contact a librarian either in college or in the Modern Languages Faculty Library. You can also use JStor (<https://www.jstor.org>) to find articles. Take note of where a particular essay or article has been published (e.g. the Oxford German Studies journal).

Should I take notes in lectures? If so, how?

You'll develop a sense of what works best for you. Making lots of notes isn't always the best approach. You could try listening to lectures as though they were a podcast (especially the ones that are available to download rather than watch live). When the lecture is over, try to write a paragraph summarising what the lecture was about/what you learned. Is there anything you didn't understand and would like to ask your tutor about?

How should I organise the time I spend on academic work?

Break tasks down into their smaller parts. E.g. don't just plan to 'write the essay' – think about all the different tasks you need to do as part of this (reading, planning, writing). That is a good way of making big tasks seem less daunting or overwhelming. Make sure you have a diary of some kind and mark deadlines clearly.

What should I do if I don't understand an assignment?

Ask the tutor for help as soon as possible. Tutors want to help you understand your academic work.

What should I do if I can't get my work in by the deadline?

Communication is key. Be upfront and honest if this happens. It may be that something unforeseen came up, it may be that you simply didn't plan your week or allow enough time to complete the assignment. Tutors are usually flexible and understanding, but you should never miss a deadline without getting in touch (unless, of course, it's some kind of emergency situation and you can't - in that case, contact the tutor as soon as possible afterwards).

Will I have to work during the vacations?

Yes. They are vacations, but not holidays. It's important to have a break after a busy term, but then you should make a plan to complete the vacation work set by tutors and to read the texts you'll be studying in the coming term. Avoid the temptation to leave everything till the last moment! The vacations are likely longer than the ones you're used to, so this planning is essential.

Reports and Feedback

Will I get marks for my work?

Some tutors give numerical marks on all pieces of work; others give written feedback but only give marks for vacation work and collections. Marks for Prelims are usually out of 100. A mark of 70 or above is a 'distinction'; a mark of 40 or above means you passed. If you're unclear about how you're doing, ask the tutor.

Will I get reports?

Yes, you will get a report at the end of every term from all tutors who have taught you for college-based tutorials and classes. These will be available for you to read. Your reports will also be discussed in end-of-term meetings with your Organising Tutor (for German that's me) and the Director of Studies for Modern Languages, and at collections with your Head of House (a meeting once a year where you meet with the head of college and your main tutors to discuss your progress).

Exams

What are 'collections'?

Collections are exams taken at the start of every term (except Freshers' Week). They are usually 3 hours' long and you sit them with other students or online. They are not the same thing as Tutor's Collections or collections with your Head of House which are end-of-term meetings. Collections are a way to monitor your progress and for you to get a feeling for exams at Oxford.

What end-of-year exams will I sit?

You will sit four end-of-year exams for German, one for each of the Papers (I-IV), and two exams for German Sole (XII and XIII).

Academic Work and Beyond

What should I do if I'm unhappy with how the course is going or have other academic-related concerns?

You should direct these to me, or to another one of your tutors. No one will be cross or disappointed if, for example, you think you might have chosen the wrong course or if you just aren't understanding how to approach the work. The important thing is to get in touch and talk it through so that we can help. Starting university can be extremely daunting (as well as exciting!) and often it just takes a bit of time to get used to everything. Also, the course is demanding, and you may well need time to adjust from how things were at school.

What should I do if I have a non-academic problem or issue?

You are always welcome to discuss this with me or another of your academic tutors. However, we understand that this is not always possible or desirable, and that it may well be more appropriate to seek help elsewhere. Every college has a Welfare Team to support you in lots of different ways. Never be afraid to ask for help, no matter how small or how scary a problem might seem. You are not alone.

Tips collected from previous students

- Look properly at the essay feedback tutors give you. Make a list of things you did well and what you could improve on next time.
- Deadlines are for your benefit, not the tutor's. Organise your time well and get things in on time!
- Read all the books. Read them in English first if that helps, but then read them in German. Look up words and write them into your copy.
- Find online texts where you can as being able to search them for key words/terms/characters is helpful when researching essay topics.
- Try explaining what you're studying to people at home/friends who don't do language and literature.
- You aren't expected to be fluent when you start. You're going to need to look up words in the dictionary.
- Remember why you wanted to do this degree course in the first place! Keep hold of the joy of reading and doing Modern Languages!
