Gender Pay Gap Report

2019

St Edmund Hall

Queen's Lane, Oxford OX1 4AR

The Equality Act 2010 (Gender Pay Gap Information) Regulations 2017 requires all organisations with 250 or more workers to report on their gender pay gap.

Results are required to show:

- Mean gender pay gap¹
- Median gender pay gap²
- Mean bonus gender pay gap
- Median bonus gender pay gap
- Proportion of males and females receiving a bonus payment
- Proportion of males and females in each pay quartile

The gender pay gap relates to differences in average male and female pay within an organisation and does not compare the pay received by men and women for doing the same or equivalent work (known as equal pay).

Data used to prepare the report was taken at the snapshot date of 5th April 2019.

¹ The Mean gender pay gap is the difference between the mean hourly rate of pay of male full-pay relevant employees and that of female full-pay relevant employees.

² The Median gender pay gap is the difference between the median hourly rate of pay of male full-pay relevant employees and that of female full-pay relevant employees.

Gender Pay Gap Report

St Edmund Hall considers itself to be a “voluntary sector” organisation for the purposes of gender pay gap reporting. Accordingly, we collected our data on 5 April 2019.

	Mean	Median
Gender Pay Gap	17.9%	6.9%
Gender Bonus Gap	10.2%	17.8%

The mean hourly rate for all male full pay relevant employees was £18.73 per hour, compared to £15.37 for females. This means that on this basis females receive 17.9% less than males per hour.

The median hourly rate for all male full pay relevant employees was £13.93 per hour, compared to £12.97 for females. This means that on this basis females receive 6.9% less than males per hour.

This is the third time that the college has published its gender pay gap, and the data shows that at the hall the mean and the median gender pay gaps have improved from previous years, though there is still a pay gap.
